Reported Treaty Between France and the Rebel Confederacy.

Prance to Co-operate with Firet and Army In Exchange for the Possession of Texas.

Vice President Stephens' Abortive Mission to Washington.

Its Object to Make Peace and Avoid this French Alliance.

His Present Mission to France to Batify the Treaty.

Our Washington Correspondence Washington. Sept. 18, 1803.
Within the last few days! have had frequent converse one with a gantleman recently from Richmond, where bed held a position which gave him an inside oppor-cuts of becoming acquainted with the facts which he as related to me, and of learning what may be consider From him I have acquired the infor mation which I propose to convey in this letter.

Stephens undertock to discharge at Washington etr Some thought it was to propose terms of peace and construction of the Union. When it failed, on account of our government not deeming it exactly right to permit ng in a rebel vessel of war to Washington, it was his in Richmond that he merely desired given out in about the exchange of prisoners. to arrange some details and up to the present time that is the only explanation and up to the present time that is the only explanation given of this very curious circumstance. It in this way:—In November last Mr. Bldell, the representative of the Southern confederacy in France, communicative of the Southern confederacy in France, communicated to his government the important information that Louis Napoleon had consented to form an alliance offensive and defensive, with the Southerney, and to contribute the material aid required for the establishment of its independence, his navy and three handred thousand men, provided that the confederacy would yield to France all the cotton growing territory went. The Mississippi, embracing Texas, half of Louisian and Arkansas.

To this the conservative representatives of the South egected: first, because they were opposed to any gn alliance; and, second, because they preferred the povernment of the United States, administered upon con-stitutional principles, with the constitutional recognition State rights, to any government which the world has yet known. Hence Mr. Stephens, after a consultation with the friends and the robel authorities, undertook his Admonished by others less hopeful than him less auxious for a restoration of the Union n view, and that it was extremely doubtful he would be permitted to hold with the President or his Secretary sie would be interposed to his proceeding to Washington and there consulting with President Lincoln and Secreary Seward as to whether some mutually satisfactor n aid, at such an immense sacrifice of its bond to territory over which it claimed jurisdiction cointed in this hope, he returned to Rich, and yielded to the general sentiment and nation to form any alliance, to submit to any oived, therefore, to consent to an altiance the said of its navy and army in securing the Confederate ech at Charlotte, North Carolina, in which be aging, and that there was a certainty of success There is reason to believe that he is now in Pranceis rested with authority to close ne French government—that Louis Nap the Scuthern confect ricy, upon the terms mentioned-brance to take Tesas and to entire noty and three hundred thousand ed diers into the service of the Southern confer eary, to secure its independence.

The knowledge that a bearer of despatches to the Confederate government has recoully arrived from Europe. bringing information that the alliance between France may have induced Governor Vance, of North Carolina, to issue his extraordinary proclamation, published a day or two since, invoking the people of that State to stand by the confederacy.
There is, without doubt, an important representative

Richmond from Gen. Forey, commanding the French forces in Mexico, whose mission is to ascertain from the Consederate government at what points French troops are desired for the service of the Southern confederacy.

Will it startle the people of the North, who have been unable to account for the confident tone of the Southern military and civil authorities, the Southern people and Southern press, even after the severest reverses, if the imformation is imparted to them that there are reasons to apprehend immediate action on the part of the French government in behalf of their new ally, the Southern con-federacy?

Will it startle the people of the North to impart to them the information that the French navy and a fleet of Contheir bold and reckless sea rovers, in command of the Confederate privateers—will prey upon our commerce and dash ime our ports without waiting to notify our government that they are coming?

Will it startle the people of the North to intimate to them that French transports may land troops at any day at Mobile or Galveston, or at both these points?

Would not the people of the North be still more astonoded, if the whole of this fermimore actuated, if the whole of this fermi-dable armida was to appear in Hampton Roads, to annihilate our ships and Monitors there, and, in conjunction with the iron-clads known to bo ready for service in Elchmond, restore Fortress Mon-roe and Norfolk to rebel supremacy, sweep up the Chesapeake, and, in concert with the powerful army of Gen, Lee, take Washington in front, flank and rear, and then, as a finite to the grand campaign, proceed up the Delaware with the hostile fleet, and, supported by the army of Gen. Lee, reduce Philadelphia to Confederate authority or ley it in ashes? These are some of the results confidently expected at the South to follow the French allience.

It has been intimated, and the same source is my oucherity, that England will, for certain considerations, cowith France, but that until bor provinces on this bie of the Atlantic Ocean are adequately protected by her military power no open and decide! manifestation of series sympathy with the new allies and the ince pendence of the rebei States of America will be exhibited.

Felons Exempt.

[From the Syracuse Standard, Sept. 18.]

Alfred Fyler, of Outendags, yesterday claimed and was granted exemption from draft on the ground that he was a convicted felon. The cause of exemption on the record reads, "Murderer—convicted felon." This is the second claim which has been allowed on this ground in this county. The first was a negro, who served out a sentence in the State prison for robbery.

The Manhattan Clam Bake Club.
THEIR ANNUAL REUNION AT MANHATTAN COVE—EPERCHES, TOASTS, ETC:
The members of Fort Washington Clam Bake Club, now called the Manhattan Club, held their annual social reunion at Manhattan Cove on Saturday last. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the affair was quite a success. The attendance was not as large as usual; and many faces, 'ambiar at this "season of corn" gathering, were absent on this occasion. They know not the treat lost.

The bake was the most successful that the club has ever had. The clerk of the weather also regulated bis ever had. The clork of the weather also regulated his part of the business in a manner that gave to all an opportunity to partake of the geod things without any interference or inconvenience from rain. Immediately after the repast was served up the whole party went aboard the revenue cutter Addison F. Andrews, under the joint invitation of the Surveyor of the Port and Captain Lober, and there spent in an entertaining manner the balance of the afternoon.

The songs, tomas, speeches, jokes, &c., were fully up to the former occasions. Fields was as entertaining as usual, active the "shakes" nor the "desire of the dear people" to seen him to the Senate detructed the least from his flow of humor. Perkius sever was so classic or people" to send him to the Senate detructed the least from his flow of humor. Perkius nover was so clarete or postical before, and excelled himself; even Fields had to yield him the palm this time. Develor seemed to add a new stock to his former vivacity since he has ceased to drink solely at the big apring with the hedians of St. Tammany, and has been in the habit of bathing in the Mozart rivers. Nor has the war and Wall street in the least prevented Schell and Knapp from enjoying these seemes as on former occasions, or lessened the number of claims required by Captain Comstock.

seenes as on former occasions, or lessened the number of class required by Captain Constock.

Among the invited quests present was General Francis B. Spinola. He is fast recovering from his wounds; that his side has bealed, but his foot yet troubles him. In reply to a toost to his health, he slinded to his coarse in the Legislature in 1861, when he was the first democrat and in fact the Brist person who recommended the policy of arming the North, and that too, three months before the bombardment of Fort Sunter. The larger portion of those present were in some way connected with the democratic party, but the response to the war sentiments of the General very clearly revealed the fact that there was none of the pence faction among them.

Speeches were made by Col. Swackhamer, Capt. Hart Rufus F. Andrews and others. The parties separated about half past seven F. M. Those coming to the city came down on the revenue cutter.

Before breaking up, ex-Collector Schell invited the members of the club to another clam bake at the same place on next Saturday. The revenue cutter A. F. Andrews, will leave the foot of Chambers street at two P. M. to ecovey those invited to participate.

Captains Suwyer and Flynn.

A young officer recently released from the Libby prison in Richmond, furnishes the following information in relation to Captains Sawyer and Flynn, who were condensed tion to Captains Sawyer and Flynn, who were condemned to death by Jeff. Davins—Captains Sawyer and Flynn, it will be remembered, bave been condemned to death in retaliation for the execution by General Burnaide of two robel officer caught recruiting within his lines. The Richmond mob demanded the death of these brave and patrictic men, but the authorities were deterred by the throatened fate of Winderand Lee, held by us at Fortress Monroe. Captains Sawyer and Flynn are confined in a sort of cage or bin petitioned of from the cellar of the building. Measured by the eye, it appeared not larged than exe feet by eight. The only light and air are admitted through a hele near the ceiling, about a foot square, through which also the food is passed down twice a day. This dea is damp, dark and most sheckingly filther; and the unfortunate victims of reboil hatred are enduring within it a living death from day to day. The rian seems to be, since their cowardly tormoniors dare not about or insig them, to torture their ives away by this long agony, and then report them as having died of sickness.

The delegation which agrangingled the it that its steam fre on these at the Crystal Palace, have reported to the atmostra Engine Company, to this city. Pheir resort was made at a regular meeting of the communy, at its rooms, on the 14th inst. It is an elaborate and core between the Manhattan on the one side and a number of engines newly and specially manufactured for the purpose on the other hand. No sugme representing any fre department of Louden was present. In fact, the judg-ment of the delegation is that the trial was arranged by a of the London Fire Brigade, was probably interested merely to profit themselves. To this end it was receivery that all fair competition should be prevenued, as it seems to have been in the case of the Manbattan. The report further says that all possible obstancies were thrown in the way of this engage is making the trial, both before and after the accident which both her in consequence of what they down the intentional mismanagement of the Lambor Fire Brigade. They are convinced, however, that in any fair trial the Manhattan would surpass all come efforts. I copy the following prisages: from their report, touching upon points of preminence:

This rount having beeff attained, the Manhattan was left, on the trial, in a crippled condition. At this point and was represented to the trial, in a crippled condition. At this point and was catirory deserted by the gallant London Fire Brigade. But your del, water has been seen for were not to be so wanquished. A retest was then accident, such a trial would be dangerous. The Manhattan was tested to double the capacity required, being 250 pounds cold water pressure to the square inch. Here it at once became obvious that they were on to so muoif afraid of the bursting of her boiler as they were anxious to burst it. But the Manhattan, injured though she was, was staunch and true, and she stood even this test. Thus she was finally admitted.

The ultimate consequence of this trial may be briefly true, and she stood even this test. Thus she was mally admitted.

The ultimate consequence of this trial may be briefly stated. The Manhattan had been injured to that degree that she could not do herself justice. She was, indeed, the first and only engine on the ground that drew water from the required distance; but no sooner had she begun to work than her other flywheel, cracked by the accident, suddenly broke. She was thus rendered helpless, and was thereupon withdrawn from the lists. Correctly apeaking, no trial was had.

In conclusion, your delegation would respectfully report that it is their manimous conviction that, had there been a lair trial and no "accident," the Manhattan would have been successful, even against he rules, regulations and prejudices of the English committee. It is moreover their conviction that Captain Shaw, of the London Fire Brigade, chief mover in getting up this trial, was, and is, in some way interested with certain local English stam fire engine tannifecturers, in whose interest it was desirable that the Manhattan would have been appropriate by him was composed of men who she could manage and did monage and, thally, that those poculiar principles of "English fair play" who were, in a well remembered trial of skill and "the light between the two nations, illustrated to the ingust of all honorable persons, were once more put, into autoessful operation in the case of the Manhattan.
